

TORCH

1935

Ex Libris

Guilielmus Drurius Stowell

Time flies, they say. All the more true does this maxim seem to me on this 16th day of June, 1938. Three years have separated me from high school; I have gone through three years of higher education with more or less success. Looking at the 1938 Torch, I find the graduates to be boys and girls who were freshmen at my graduation. Many of my former teachers have gone from EFA, in but three short years. My acquaintances there are very few. High school has lost much of its lustre for me; it has been dimmed and superimposed by three years of intense higher education, new acquaintances, several fast and deep friendships, new views on life, a broader outlook, etc. In other words, I have grown up.

But still, my own high-school days are the happiest days of my life. There were no responsibilities to make me grave, no worries to sadden me, no cares to burden me. Halcyon days is the best description of my high school life.

Seldom now do I revert to this book; not that it has lost its lustre, but rather because it has been supplanted by other interests. But it still means to me a pictorial means of connotation, by which I can re-live those happiest of days. The intervening years have separated me from all that this book represents. My prophecy has come true: this Torch lights up the dim past, that these memories of the past may not be lost in the dreams of the future. And these memories are still dear to me, which fulfills another of my prophecies: As time flies on, and the years speed past, this book shall become more and more endeared to me. Because I scan it less frequently than I used to is no proof that it means less to me. The less I look at it, the more dear it becomes.

in E.F.A.

by
"Jenny" "quidley"
Warden

Sometimes I review the versicles under the names; sometimes I just look at the pictures. Those pictures review the past: the fellows with whom I palled around; the girls with whom I went (more or less); even the girls whom I liked but with whom I was too shy to become acquainted. Various thoughts are engendered in my mind at each perusal of the book: where is he, where is she, how did I become acquainted with him, with her, etc.?

I must leave some space for future scribbling.
Three years of intense and highly specialized study have opened many new vistas and have made me a man; but I still yearn after for those halcyon days of youth - in E.F.A.

On this day, Thursday, Jan. 9, 1936, I wish to add a few comments to this yearbook. Innumerable times have I turned these leaves.
My prophecy has come true. A half year of seminary life has not eradicated from my mind the memories of those halcyon days and the desire to renew them. High Schools is a grand place, especially Elmira Free Academy. I love it yet, and everything about it. And some day, when perhaps I shall be laboring in some far distant diocese, this book shall be to me even more cherished than now. New friends have I met, new subjects have I taken up, new teachers teach me. My whole life is changed, but my memories remain. Is it any wonder that I am a sentimentalist - a dreamer? To look into the future is my one continual dream - to review the past is a very pleasant pastime when I am idle. My mind leans toward either. God has been good to me - He has, through His supreme power, caused me to be here. Through His supreme power, He has brought to me the de quoc, the sine qua non, of education - finances. But I am rambling.
May this book always be as great a consolation and solace to me in the future as now. And in what way can I better review the past than to use this book as a medium? That the memories of the past may not be lost in the dreams of the future this Torch was published. And may it be so in aeternum!

On this fifteenth day of May, 1935, I experienced the day to which I had been looking forward for four years. Now I am a Senior, ready to be graduated in June. It hardly seems possible, after, it seems, time immemorial of waiting.

In the days to come, when in reminiscence I shall fondly turn the well-worn leaves of this book, I shall be bringing back unto my mind many beautiful memories of good times and old friends, whose writing appear within.

EX LIBRIS

Life goes on, day by day, and brings with each fleeting hour new troubles, perplexities, joys, sorrows, remorses. But I can always return to those halcyon days of the dim past by route of this cherished book. I shall always keep it that the memories of the past may not be lost in the dreams of the future.

As time flies on, and the years speed past, this book shall be quite dear to me. These days will not be lost; for I shall use this book as a torch to light up the dim past.

Dear Classmates:

It is with a touch of regret and an inward feeling of sorrow that we, the class of 1935, take our leave from these beloved walls of learning. The time has come when we must bid farewell to our school, our faculty, and the student body, all who have contributed so much to the joys and the pleasant memories of our too brief sojourn within these walls.

The acuteness of existing conditions, relative to the present, should not dampen the spirit of our youth as some of us enter higher institutions of learning while others thus early in their lives are faced with the arduous task of trying to sustain their existence minus further education. But, let us remember that even though we have completed our academic studies, education never ends. Let us explore in this life and seek out the hidden treasures that surround us so abundantly. Let us early in our lives become acquainted with those qualities of good character which include humility, truthfulness, temperance, unselfishness and justice.

With these qualities as the foundation stones of our characters I believe, with all sincerity, that we will succeed with some greater or less degree of success and so make our lives shine before men that they may reflect further honor and glory upon our Alma Mater.

Therefore in conclusion, my dear friends, let us not forget each other and the associations which we have enjoyed through the medium of the various student organizations. And last, but not least, by any means, the teachers who have so patiently and so generously contributed of their time and knowledge in an ever present hope that we might find the way, the truth and the light. They are second only to the Motherhood of America.

Sincerely yours,
WALTER CHAPEL.

For the second consecutive year, the class of 1936 has been organized and prominent in school activities, both social and otherwise. In their Sophomore year, the Juniors chose as their leaders, Jack Hirst, president; Katherine Kinsman, vice-president; Phyllis Cole, secretary; William Love, treasurer. This year they chose Daniel Coleman, Eleanor Chapel, Jessie Mould and Emory Stoddard to direct their footsteps.

One of the first things to which the Juniors turned their attentions was the selection of their class jewelry, a matter capably managed by the committee selected. The Junior Class Interclass Basketball Team carried off the honors in this field by triumphing over all contenders for championship.

Now the Juniors are eagerly looking forward to Junior Day when they will be the leaders of the school, and the Junior Prom, this year to be held with the Seniors.

During the past year the Sophomore Class, having been organized in the fall of 1934, the third Sophomore class to organize in as many years, has taken its place in school activities. Following the leadership of their chosen officers, the members of the class of 1937 successfully celebrated Sophomore Day on March twentieth. On this day they presented an assembly and an amateur contest for the entertainment of the rest of the student body. As a means of further proving its ability, the class was also represented by a booth in the Student Council Annual Spring Carnival.

For the first time in many years the Freshman Class has been organized under the direction of the Student Council. Those to whom the youngest students of the Elmira Free Academy have intrusted themselves for their first year of high school life are: Phillip Flanagan, President; Suzanne Noble, vice-president; Jane Paxson, secretary; Robert Chely, treasurer.

Although the class of 1938 has not been the most active of school organizations during the past year, it has accomplished things which point to its success in the next three years. Freshman Day, a new institution in the Academy, will in all probability be celebrated by the members of the class by an assembly and other special features.

ACTIVITIES

Dear papa Kelston,
 I hope you aren't too ashamed of your daughter and some of her crazy, idiotic actions. But I'm afraid it's just her nature, something she doesn't seem to inherit from her father at all. But you must know that I'm not the least bit ashamed of my father, in fact, I'm most awfully proud of knowing him and claiming him as one of my friends.

So you remember some of the crazy times we used to have at No. 11, and Miss Lunn and Mrs. Sydney and some of the others. It doesn't seem possible we're graduating from H.S. yet, does it and when you think that we'll be here 4 1/2 years it seems even more impossible. However, I guess it's just another illustration of the old, well-known fact "tempus fugit." I do hope that even though we may seem to be parting here as we leave E.F.A. that we'll never forget the good times we have had nor will we ever cease to be friends, regardless of where we may be at some future date.

Your daughter,

As the leading organization of the Elmira Free Academy, the Student Council has had an active and successful year.

During the football season a student cheering section was organized by the council. The sweaters, presented by the Student Council, gave the cheerleaders a neat, uniform appearance. Cars, text books, and even jackets were adorned by the Council's football stickers. Under the guidance of this group, the Freshman Class was organized for the first time in many years.

Although the Student Council has to its credit several brilliant assemblies given throughout the year, the presentation of a moving-picture program at school, the establishment of an inter-school council, and the sponsoring of a most successful spring carnival; its outstanding achievement has been the founding of the "Better Clubs Contest". This is a plan adopted to stimulate the competitive spirit among the clubs and to spur them on to greater accomplishments.

TORCH LITERARY STAFF

Faculty Adviser MR. ANTHONY SCHWENKLER

The Torch Literary Staff of 1935 has worked with excellent cooperation towards producing a year book of distinction—one that would be worthy of the class it represents. Several new features in designing and material have been added to the pattern laid out in previous years.

For their kindly advice and supervision in this project, the Staff extends its most sincere appreciation to Mrs. Helen Winsor, art adviser, and Mr. Anthony Schwenkler, faculty and financial adviser. The Business Staff and its three capable managers deserve much praise for the way in which they have financed the issue despite almost unprecedented advertising difficulties.

Credit for this year's novel drawings goes to Jean Barber and Richford Scopes, staff artists.

Thanks are due Walter Chapel, Clara Oparil and Mary Lou Wright, members of the senior class, and Phyllis Cole, Florence Palizay, Vivian Bruce, juniors, who have helped with the literary work. We also wish to express our appreciation to any others whose names we have unintentionally omitted.

Finally, recognition is rendered each member of the staff for his earnest efforts in behalf of the annual.

The financial success of the Torch has been accomplished through the never-ending perseverance of the staff. Under the capable direction of the business managers, and their faculty adviser, Mr. Schwenkler, the success of the year-book has been made complete. In the teeth of the gale of the depression, these students have conquered all odds.

The Senior Musicale, held under the chairmanship of June Cary, was exceedingly beneficial to the success of this book in that it gave the Seniors an opportunity to pay for their engravings.

Praise is due each member of this staff for his excellent cooperation with the managers and the literary staff and additional thanks are heartily given Vinton Stevens, Vivian Bruce, Barbara Hausner, members of the Junior Class who helped the staff.

The cooperation of the town merchants is also gratefully acknowledged by the Senior Class.

The literary success of the Vindex this year has been outstanding. The three staff members who attended the Columbia Scholastic Press Association contest in New York City brought back the news that our paper won third place in its class. From a business and financial view also, the Vindex has been a success. The Business Staff should be congratulated for its strenuous efforts in the advertising and circulation campaigns. The close cooperation between these two staffs has made possible the continuance of the high standards always represented by the Vindex.

The Press Club, which is closely associated with the Vindex, promotes the study of good literary ability and better methods of soliciting advertisements. This organization is made up of members of the Vindex staff and those who are trying out for the staff.

 Librarian MISS ELIZABETH ELDREDGE

The Library Council, under the able supervision of Miss Eldredge, the librarian, has been very helpful to both the students and the teachers. The duties of the members of this organization are to charge and discharge books borrowed from the library, put the books in their proper places when they have been misarranged, help get out new books and to send overdue notices. The girls also help the students find desired material and make themselves generally useful in the library.

Through this work the members of the council learn how to choose books and become familiar with the fundamentals of library procedure. By helping reinforce and repair books and magazines in the library, these students learn how to care for books.

Each member of the Council spends one period in the day and the cooperation with Miss Eldredge makes the librarian's work considerably lighter.

AGORA

Faculty Adviser MISS ELIZABETH DENEEN

During the past school year the members of Agora have experienced an unusually active and interesting program of activities. Shortly after the commencement of the new school term, fifteen recruits were added to Agora's ranks and soon after this the annual Forum-Agora dance was held in the gymnasium with a record attendance of both clubs.

Many interesting meetings, featuring speakers, informal debates and discussions all helped Agora to gain the distinction of winning the Cup for the Student Council's Better Club Contest and holding this honor for the first two months of the competition. Besides the regular weekly meetings, and the night meeting, held once a month at the Steele Memorial Library, the members enjoyed several picnic suppers, a theater party, a swimming party and are now looking forward to the annual picnic. The rivalry between Agora and Forum was again tested when the two organizations debated on a question of public interest.

On February thirteenth, which was set aside as Agora Day, the society sponsored an assembly that was enthusiastically received by other students, and Agora members were distinguished by the wearing of the club colors.

The success of the undertakings of Forum during the past year has been astounding.

Primarily a debating club, Forum has kept its purpose ever in view. Forum meetings, the school's models of parliamentary procedure, have been both entertaining and educational. Various speakers, a mock trial, and numerous debates and discussions constituted the weekly assemblies.

Good will and friendship between Forum and its contemporary, Agora, has been promoted by several joint activities. Early in December the two organizations enjoyed a dance in the gymnasium while this term a debate was held on the following: Resolved: That chain stores are detrimental to the best interests of the American people. A debate over the local radio station was also sponsored by Forum.

Plans are now being made for the annual June dance which points towards being as outstanding successful as the other activities of this organization.

This year has proven to be one of the finest years Masquer's Dramatic Society has ever experienced.

During the year many plays, some of which were written by members, were enacted at the meetings. The annual Christmas play entitled "Do Men Gossip" was presented in assembly twice to meet with the popular demand. Several other plays, sponsored by this society, have met with the great approval of the student body.

Although in past years Masquers has been a very successful organization, the members are inclined to look back on this present year as the most active.

To say that "Nothing But The Truth" is a delightful rollicking comedy is nothing but the truth.

Rehearsals began in early March and under the very able direction of Mr. Colgan the acts formulated until in May, it was played before a large audience. No more need be said other than it was an overwhelming success.

"Nothing But The Truth" consists of three acts. The plot centers about Bob Bennett who, for his fiancée, Gwen Ralston, makes a wager with Mr. Ralston, Dick Donnelly, and Clarence Van Deusen that for twenty-four hours he can tell nothing but the truth. For two long acts Bob dodges, stammers, but tells the truth. He has a hard time of it but the other three also suffer through this inability to tell even white lies. The swindling of the Bishop and his reaction, Mable, Sable, and Mrs. Ralston's little talk, the insulting of Ethel and many others provided the laughs which contributed to its success.

Although organized only a few years ago, the Girl's Hi-Y has rapidly become a promoter of school interests, high scholastic standings and friendly relations. This year, through the cooperation of its members and the help of its able adviser, Miss Heinen, the club has been able to carry on numerous projects, one of which was the making of shakers during the football season.

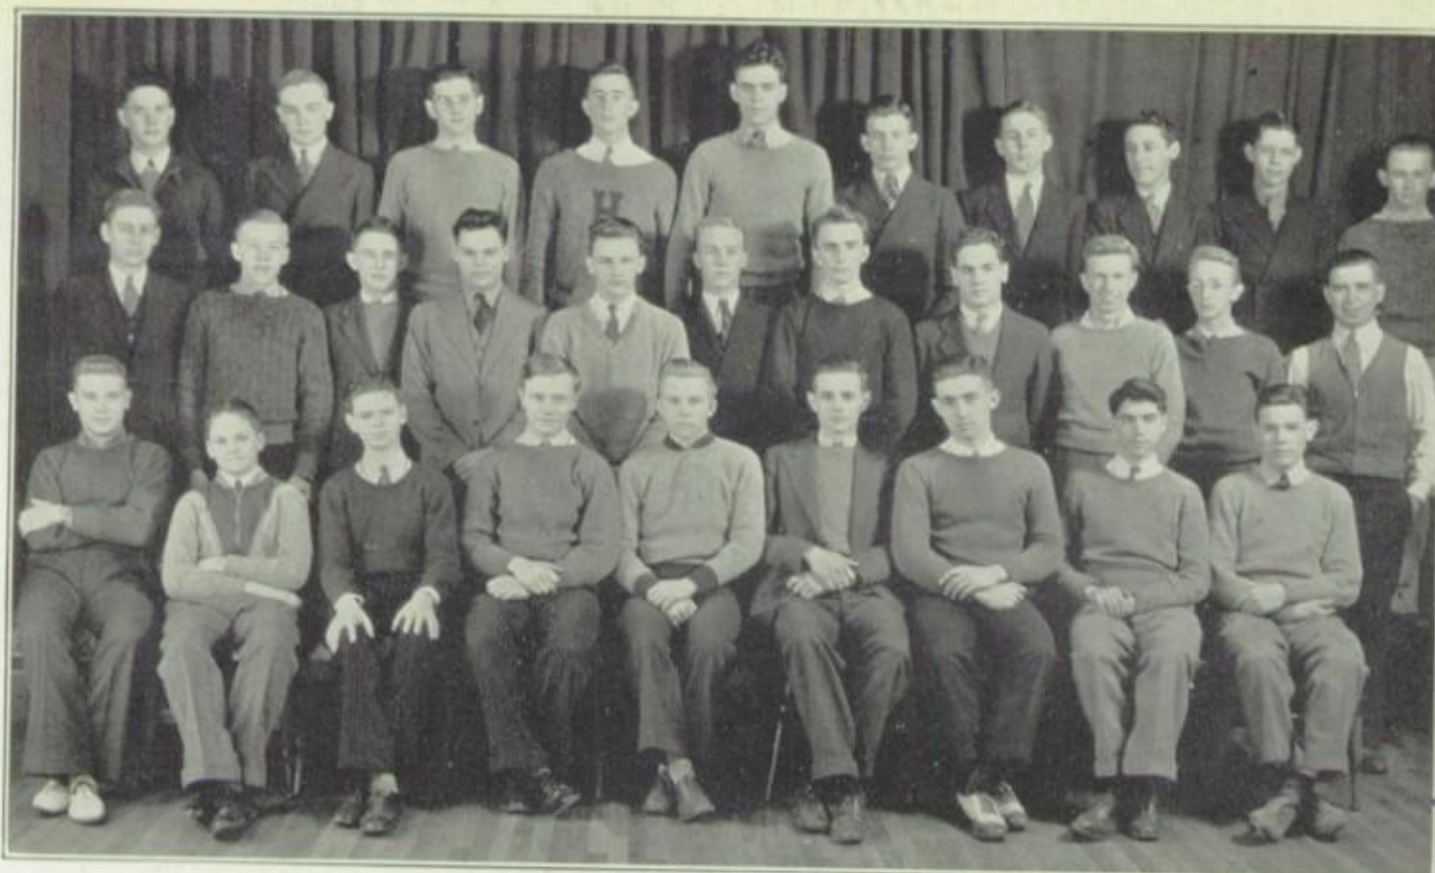

Besides holding a tea for some of the faculty advisers and the Girl Reserves, during the winter, the girls have, within the passing semester, conducted a Victor Record campaign in an endeavor to secure a radio for the school.

In the fall after a number of new members had been initiated, Boy's Hi-Y adopted a scheme to stimulate interest in the weekly meetings. The members were divided into two teams which competed with each other in attendance, swimming meets and football games.

Various other entertainments and activities, including a dance held in the fall, have made the Hi-Y a leading organization in the school. Many prominent Elmirans who spoke at the meetings made these not only enjoyable but also educational.

This pleasant schedule of activity was marred by only one event, the death of Jay Horton, one of the younger members of the club.

The Elmira High School Band, composed of students from both the Academy and the Southside High School, is completing the most successful year since its inception seven years ago. Under the able direction of Mr. William Biery, the band has given many performances, all of which have been exceptionally creditable to the members and the director.

In addition to all the football games and several other school functions, music was provided for all prominent civic affairs, including the Water Street opening and Governor Lehman's Elmira visit. "A splendid organization," said the Governor, commending Drum Major Doris Long. Enthusiastic applause greeted the band at the New York State Reformatory during a winter concert and special praise was received for the splendid performance at the Southside High School.

During the past weeks the band has been practicing for the Spring Concert which promises to be as commendable as the other enterprises have been.

The High School orchestra, composed of about forty students from both high schools, has completed a very successful year. The members, who receive Regents credit for their work, played at assemblies during the year. In addition to this, performances were given at the Teacher's Convention, the Rotary Club, and the New York State Reformatory. The orchestra, which rehearses weekly at No. 2 School, has a fine reputation, widened not only by its excellent playing, but also by the great variety of instruments represented in it.

Faculty Adviser	MISS JEAN CHRISTIAN

The Girl's Glee Club, which has met bi-weekly during the seventh period under the direction of Miss Jean Christian, has again enjoyed a favorable year.

At the Christmas assembly, in unison with the Boy's Glee Club, they presented a delightful tableau representing the "Nativity". A lovely Christmas party was also enjoyed by the members of the club.

Later on in the school year, a sextet of girls from the club assisted the members of the Girl's Hi-Y in presenting a radio program.

On March 31, the Glee Club was again heard at the Park Church Forum; and the members are now practicing for their appearance in the annual spring concert, which will mark their last recital for the year.

President	MARIA RANCHIL
Vice-President	WILLIAM LOVE
Secretary-Treasurer	RUTH STEWART
Faculty Adviser	MISS SYLVIA KOTRBA

The Biology Club, now in its sixth year, requires little introduction. The study of natural science has well proved its instructive value, while social activities have enhanced its appeal to the students.

New members admitted in October and February, as well as older ones, have heard many interesting lectures during the course of their membership. Miss Lydia Walsh of the Elmira College Faculty spoke before the members, early in the year, on her trip to South America. An assembly at which Dr. Kellogg of Cornell University lectured on birds was sponsored by the club during the first term. For a fitting conclusion to this part of activity, the Biology Club stages annually a Spring Nature Contest. Climaxing this year's social and educational undertakings, a dinner dance will be held in June, its special feature being the installation of new officers.

"Good sportsmanship and the promotion of athletics." With this slogan in mind, the girls of Phi Alpha Kappa have accomplished much toward the enlivening of school spirit. The members have cooperated with each other by holding hikes and swimming parties, and with the students by honoring the best basketball teams at a supper and attending games. A similar sorority at the Southside High School has also participated in some of the activities.

In an effort to create enthusiasm for basketball, the girls have ardently supported the interclass contests and sponsored the Army-Navy game, an exciting competition between two teams composed of picked members of the interclass teams. The organization also chartered buses to Cortland and Endicott, in order that the students might have an opportunity to see the E. H. S. championship basketball team complete its undefeated season.

FOOTBALL SEASON

Elmira High Schools 20 — — — Binghamton 0. It was this decisive victory over the traditional foe from Parlor City that prevented the Elmira High School's football campaign of 1934 from appearing like an immense blot on the football annals. Seven games were played with the Blue and White winning four of them for a .571 percentage.

Probably the two most outstanding features of the '34 season, aside from the actual playing, were the appearance for the first time in several years of an enthusiastic and determined group of cheer-leaders, and the presentation of twelve heavy, navy blue blankets, bearing a white block "E", to the team by the Harper Street Athletic Field Neighborhood Association. Although all the home games were broadcast through the facilities of WESG, the majority of these games were well attended.

Aided somewhat by a splendid spring practice, although many likely prospects failed to be on hand in the fall, Coach Hirst began immediately at the opening of the Fall term the Hurculean task of building a winning team from the seventy candidates, five of them veterans, who had reported for the initial roundup. As the date for the opening clash approached, it was apparent that Mr. Hirst had succeeded in developing a light but speedy combination. It was feared, however, that this squad would find the road quite hazardous with such formidable opponents as the Alfred Frosh, Binghamton, U. E., and Ithaca lurking in the shadows. Many even thought it doubtful that the E. H. S. would be able to defeat Hornell, their first opponent and usually a sure victory, who had already survived in great form the effects of several gruelling battles with stronger teams.

Nevertheless, Saturday, October the sixth found a fairly large crowd present at the Elmira High School's Athletic Field to see the Blue warriors trample their highly talked about rivals by the impressive score of 19-0. The following Saturday the team continued its march to glory by defeating the strong Alfred Frosh 13-0.

Hopes that this speedy team might rise to championship heights were quickly quenched on October twentieth when Coach Craumer's confident veterans from Corning definitely avenged the crushing defeat of the previous year by setting Elmira on the short, round end of a 13-0 tally.

Determined to repair all the weaknesses that appeared evident in the Corning fray, and confident that this defeat by the C. F. A. was omen that history was about to repeat itself, the team drilled faithfully on the field for the Bingo clash, while all attempts were being made to elevate school spirit to its highest possible level through the media of assemblies, pep fests, and enticing signs. These efforts were not in vain, for nearly five thousand spectators braved a spasmodic rain to witness the amazing performance of the light Blue as they ran roughshod over a heavy, highly favored dark Blue from Broome County 20-0. Saturday, November third was an open date.

The largest crowd ever to push its way through the Athletic Field gates watched Elmira, handicapped by several injuries, bravely lose a real "heartbreaker" to the Orange Tornado from Union Endicott on November tenth. The final score was Elmira 0—U.E. 7.

The following Saturday the Blue and White came back strong to trounce an over-rated Cortland eleven 27-0.

On November twenty-fourth Elmira's greatly battered team machine journeyed to Ithaca to accept the hospitality of the powerful Red and Gold. Although greatly out-classed from the start, the Blue and White fought doggedly to stop the Red's swift aerial attack, but all in vain, for they were soundly trounced 31-7. This game ended the 1934 struggles of the E. H. S. moleskin wearers.

At the banquet held in honor of the players, eighteen received the much coveted "E" for their faithful service. The system of selecting a captain for the coming year was abolished and that of appointing a captain before each game substituted.

First row: Lester Wolf, Carolus Skelly, John Bisbee, Joseph Punzo, Joel Robinson, Charles Dimon, Carlton Wood.

BASKETBALL SEASON

"The greatest team, by far, that we have opposed or seen on the courts this year" was the comment made by Coach Larry Wheeler of the Johnson City High School basketball team, after the Elmira High School great 1934-35 quintet had clinched the Class A title of Section Four of New York by defeating his charges in a colorful game played on the Endicott High School court. The Blue and White earned the opportunity to compete with Johnson City in the sectional play-off by her creditable performance in winning the Southern Tier Conference league title. This was accomplished with seemingly great ease, although several of the contests required thrilling last-half rallies to assure the Hirstmen of victory. Because Auburn and Oneonta withdrew from competition, the Elmira-Johnson City tilt was the only game necessary to decide the sectional championship.

In winning the Southern Tier Conference title, the E. H. S. dribblers took to the court in ten league games, clinching victory in all of them for a perfect percentage. The team was also successful in two non-league games and the sectional play-off, bringing the total number of victories to thirteen without a defeat. Although teams representing the light Blue have won eight conference titles under the tutelage of Coach Hirst, since the loop was formed in 1921, this is only the second quint that ever won the championship without meeting at least one setback. The Hirst courtmen of 1924-25 were the only other cagers to accomplish this feat.

The E. H. S. with a non-league victory over the N. Y. S. Reformatory to its credit opened its fourteenth season in the Southern Tier Conference by playing Binghamton at Binghamton. Uncorking a dazzling passing attack, the light Blue courtsters overwhelmed the Parlor City "Bulldogs" 43-24. Corning Free Academy fell next in a non-league game, 24-21. Playing its first home game of the season with Ithaca as its guests, the Elmira team trimmed the Little Red 37-17. The following week Norwich came, saw, and was conquered by the notable score of 54-15.

On Friday, February first, the Queen City cagers journeyed to U. E. to battle the undefeated Shoetown five in the game that might decide the conference title. Playing true to form, however, the Blue basketekers returned with their fourth league victory won by the tally of 30-24. The Elmira five ended the first round undefeated by trouncing Cortland in a surprising tussle 27-16.

In the first game of the second round the Blue-White cagemen repeated their previous victory over Bingo by nosing them out in a whirlwind finish 31-28. The Junior Varsity likewise won its second engagement of the season with the dark Blue understudies. These four victories in basketball, together with the varsity and Jayvee victories in football, gave the light Blue six straight wins over the Parlor City lads in inter-scholastic competition for the 1934-35 season. March first the E. H. S. clinched the Southern Tier Conference title by again defeating Norwich.

With the title now a certainty, the Hirstmen continued to realize hopes of an undefeated season by overcoming a stubborn and determined Orange and Black five from U. E. for a second time 30-25. Only Cortland stood between the Blue and White and an undefeated season. This final battle proved to be a real hair-raiser, the score standing 22-22 at the end of the four quarters. However, in the overtime period the invading Elmira team scored five points while holding the home towners to a single point, making the final score read Elmira 27 — Cortland 23. In the sectional play-off Johnson City was soundly beaten 28-10, definitely showing the Hirst boys to be the court marvels of the section.

When the final standings were compiled they showed that Elmira had scored 408 points to her opponents 251, an average of 31 points per game. Joel Robinson, E. H. S. center, was undoubtedly the most outstanding player of the team, if not of the entire league. He scored 114 points to lead the home-team scoring, and was second only to Augie Macalie of Ithaca in league scoring. Joel, no doubt, would have led the league if he had desired to sacrifice team play for individual honors. Much credit must also be given John Bisbee, a stellar guard, who always shone highly on the defensive. The Junior Varsity, with Bill Shoff the leading scorer, also turned in a fine seasons record, winning 8 out of ten games.

The men who received letters for their splendid playing and invaluable service to the basketball team are: Joel Robinson, Carolus Skelly, Lester Wolf, Charles Dimon, John Bisbee, Joseph Punzo, Carlton Wood and Thomas Delaney, manager.

First row: Toles, Carrigan, McLaury, Reidy, Rapley, Lynch, Rich, Stobbel, Bunn, Delaney.

Assistant Manager THOMAS DELANEY

The Elmira Jayvees under the tutelage of "Red" Riley may well boast that the 1934 season was the best in the history of the understudy competition. They played four games, winning all of them for a perfect percentage.

The victory that made the 1934 campaign outstanding was the one over Bingo by the score of 21-7. It was the first time in the many engagements of the two great rivals that an Elmira Junior Varsity scored a triumph over a Bingo Jayvee squad.

In its other entanglements, the Jayvees defeated the West Side 2-0 on a slippery snow covered gridiron; swamped the Heights team 20-0; and again defeated the West Side in a return engagement at Parley Coburn 26-0.

First row: Walter Zimdahl, James Moylan, Homer Wilson.

A FEATURES

Well Bill, our four years are just about up and I really am sorry. I'll miss all my old friends, especially one Bill Stowell. Gosh, Bill, we've had a lot of fun together, haven't we. Shows, walks, clubs, the play, B.C. ect. You've been one damn good friend, and just because of our graduation, don't let it (our friendships) die out. Of course we'll be separated but a good friendship endureth. I wish you all the luck, success, and happiness in the world. I know you'll succeed and be one of our foremost ———. Now don't forget me ———.

CLASS HISTORY

The "Good Ship '35" began her long and somewhat tempestuous journey in September, 1931. We, as her crew, had as our destination, Diploma Isle, our land of promise.

After weathering through the seas of the first lap of our voyage, we sailed into calmer waters, choosing as our first captain, James Cunningham. His trusty officers were Marianne Henry, Grace Eaton, and James Kelly. It was the first time in many years that the crew of such a "ship-of-state" had organized.

The next year, James Cunningham again took over the duties of captain, this time assisted by Marion Newman, Betty West, and Eugene Morrell. With James Kelly guiding us, we chose class jewelry to be used as the ensignia. Twice we forgot our work-a-day selves, to frolic on board; once, on a June evening, we held a prom under the chairmanship of John Brand; and on a sunny June day, we celebrated Junior Day, with fluttering red and white ribbons, white frocks and flannels. Even King Neptune chuckled at the droll antics of the Junior boys in the Junior Day Play.

In September, 1934, we landed on Diploma Isle, and chose as our leaders Walter Chapel, Frances Hurley, Harry Tipton, and June Cary. The Senior Musicale was one of the many social events held by our distinguished organization.

With spring came the many events accepted as privileges of our rank. The annual Senior Play "Nothing But The Truth" was presented early in May under the capable direction of Mr. John E. Colgan. Today, we are commanding, captains in our own right, while the others look on. Our unique rights today, however, are not all, for we are looking forward to the long-awaited Senior Prom and Senior Reception; and finally our goal, Commencement.

And then, as we again set sail, each one piloting his own ship, we will glance back fondly to the days we spent together. For the most part our destinations are unknown but we can go forth with happy hearts for we have found what we came in quest of, Knowledge and Friendship.

CLASS WILL

We, the class of 1935, having reached the end of our high school career, realize that the time has come to think seriously (or maybe not so seriously) of those who will be dependent upon our superb and laboriously gained experience. It is, therefore with this thought for the future of our inferior successors in mind, that we have drawn up this, our last will and testament.

FIRST—We bequeath to the class of 1936:

1. The honor of carrying on in our footsteps (not too far).
2. The distinction of giving away tickets to Senior Musicales.

SECOND—To that consolidated corporation, the faculty, we express:

1. Our gratitude for their patience and success (?) in forming our brilliant careers.

THIRD—To the following efficient institution, we bequeath:

1. To Agora, more of Mr. Colgan's advice.
2. To the Vindex Office, a speakeasy panel and a radio.
3. To the Stamp Club, our stamp of approval.
4. To the Freshman Class, a renewed lease on life.

FOURTH—We bequeath also to our successors, next year's "big shots":

1. To Ruth Crooks, Mary Dow's popularity.
2. To Barbara Bush, Mary Hawkes' sweetness.
3. To Miss Daly, the thrill of going around the Mark Twain course in 37.
4. To Miss Deneen, a senior girls' homeroom.
5. To George Hetrick and Bill Love, a fight for Senior Play lead.
6. To Mr. Schwenkler, a fling to celebrate the publishing of the Torch.
7. To Walt Zimdahl, an open line.
8. To Herbie Epstein, Walt Chapel's popularity.
9. To Danny Coleman, some high class tobacco.
10. To Alice Dennis, more inspiration for editorials.

STARTIX

STARTIX means safety. It conquers stalled engines and gives you automatic protection in traffic, on hills and at dangerous railroad crossings.

You simply turn on the ignition key—STARTIX starts your engine automatically... and re-starts it automatically if it stalls. STARTIX adds convenience, too — no starter button is necessary.

STARTIX can be easily, quickly and inexpensively installed on any car equipped with a Bendix Drive. Price $8.50 plus installation. Come in and talk it over.

Beyond the Four Walls

Your bank, like your home, is a vital, living part of the community.

If your house were surrounded by a desert, would you still care to call it home—without neighbors, without stores, without civic improvements and modern conveniences?

This is equally true of your bank. It is the customers—the business houses, the farmers, the wholesalers and industries—that make a bank. If you were to erect this building on a remote mountain top, equip it and man it—it would not be a bank, no matter how perfectly organized. The essential element of human contact and service would be lacking.

Only when an institution plays an active, considerate part in the life of the community—understanding its people and their financial needs, and giving them its best in banking services—is it worthy of the name BANK.
